Dr. Schutz wins the Hospital Management Awards 2020 with its floor remake system

The Dr. Schutz Group has asserted itself among the finalists of the M&K Awards 2020 and has won first prize in the category "Building & Furnishing". This innovation made in Germany has won several awards and offers hospitals a modern possibility to renovate existing floors, whereby long stoppage times and high costs are avoided.

(Bonn, 13.02.2020) The floor remake System from Dr. Schutz has won the M&K Award 2020. For the seventh time in a row the M&K Management & Hospital Award has been awarded. At first a top-flight jury made a selection from many submitted products.

Before: old, unsightly floor / After: renovated, coloured floor

The following pre-selection went to a decision by the M&K magazine readers, in which the Bonn company was able to convince this audience of health care experts with its renovation system. Management & Hospitals, the newspaper for decision-makers in the health service has more than 30,000 readers of its print edition.

After the German Innovation Award 2018 and 2019, this is the next award for innovation and sustainability in the product development of the Dr. Schutz Group.

Innovation, quality and sustainability form an important part of the Dr. Schutz Group's vision, especially in the healthcare area. With the unique floor remake system existing floors are renovated with a transparent or coloured coating, thereby protecting them long-term against stains and scratches. The joints and surface of the floor are hermetically sealed in the process, so that germs and dirt can no longer penetrate and settle there, as a study by the renowned Eurofin Institute recently proved. Moreover, this system from the global market leader in permanent coatings also meets and exceeds the world's highest hygiene standards in healthcare.

Besides hygiene, the design and appearance of a hospital are also very important. This is why Dr. Schutz floor remake System offers countless individual design possibilities as desired. In addition to a wide choice of colours and gloss grades, many design elements, such as logos or signposts, can be integrated into the new floor design in the form of foils or templates. Furthermore, the quality and function of the extremely abrasion-resistant coatings make aftercare very easy and cost efficient, which in turn leads to a significant reduction in maintenance costs.

"We feel very honoured that our intensive research and development work has been recognized by the industry's main decision makers. This is a tremendous success for the entire team which makes us all very proud", said Dr. Lothar Schutz, CEO of the Group. "Sustainability, hygiene and safety form the basis of every successful hospital management in the world. We are very pleased to be able to make our contribution to this important work with the Dr. Schutz floor remake System."
